JACKIE BEERE OBE

Author of the incredibly popular Perfect Ofsted Lesson and editor of the best-selling Perfect Series, Jackie is one of the most in-demand speakers, trainers and consultants around today. She is proof that emotionally-intelligent, child-centred leadership can be rigorous and effective whatever the make-up of the school.

DAVID CAMERON

David - or the 'Real David Cameron' as we all know him - has a unique view of the educational landscape. His experience stretches from leadership of children's services at authority level to the classroom, from the development of national educational policy to its implementation in schools and takes in work at national and regional level in both Scotland and England.

SIMON COOPER-HIND

A speaker, trainer, consultant and coach working across the UK and abroad, his message has remained the same - unless you make the learning real for the children in your school, you are simply wasting time, yours and theirs.

DAVE HARRIS

Dave's books Brave Heads and Leadership Dialogues have become essential reading for many school leaders across the UK and beyond. He has over 12 years' experience and believes that now, more than ever, we need leaders with soul.

MEET YOUR SPEAKERS

Roy is one of the most inspiring speakers on education today, not only because of the genuinely useful and practical nature of his advice but also because he talks to an audience as real life, living, loving human beings. Or, in the words of one delegate recently: 'He should be bottled and consumed frequently!'

PLUS A SPECIAL TWILIGHT SESSION

KEN REID OBE

Friday 31st March 2017

HEAD TEACHER; HEAD LEARNER - LEADING THE WAY WE LEARN AND GROW

There has been a great deal written about the importance of developing a growth mindset in young people. And rightly so. But what are the implications of Dweck's pioneering work for the adults in the school, in particular the head. In this inspiring session, educator and personal development 'guru' Jackie Beere will explore the power of growth mindset leadership.

Jackie Beere OBE

LEADING THROUGH, LEADING WITH, LEADING FOR - PREPOSITIONS FOR LEADERSHIP

If you explore the research on exemplary school leadership written by some of the world's leading academics, you will find no reference to Clint Eastwood-style leadership or the need for schools to be led by 'battlers and bruisers'. Why? Because it is an out-dated model that ignores the levels of complexity schools and their leaders face these days. Based on long and varied experience as an educational leader, David will take a practical, helpful and challenging look at different concepts of leadership – ones that are collaborative, permissive and effective.

The Real David Cameron

ME, MYSELF, I - HOW GREAT LEADERS LEAD THEMSELVES FIRST

To lead others you need to know others. And to know others you need to know yourself. At a time when headteachers are under pressure to look after everything and everyone else first, this session is about putting yourself first, for a while at least. Delegates will consider the skills they have and what it will take to develop them further whilst learning to balance the pride they take in what they achieve with a sense of humility about the scale of the task before them.

Simon Cooper-Hind

LEADERSHIP LESSONS - LEADING A SCHOOL TO SUCCESS

Dave regularly takes tours of foreign educators to some of the most innovative schools across the British Isles. Drawing on his own experience as a head, from his best-selling leadership books and this unique perspective on British education, Dave will share what he has seen on his travels and reveal the common thread he has discovered in the very best schools.

Dave Harris

AUTHENTIC LEADERSHIP - IF LEADERSHIP ISN'T A MORAL ACTIVITY, WHAT IS IT?

Pulling together the thoughts from the day, long-time colleagues Roy and Dave will present a range of simple tools for leaders to use in their school to help develop a learning environment with authenticity, integrity and an irresistible moral purpose.
