The Incredible Classroom A Primary Teacher's Guide

Making your teaching inspiring to ensure their learning is incredible – what every truly creative primary classroom practitioner needs to know

To create truly engaging, motivating and memorable learning experiences for children then the place to start is in the teacher's head. Change your thinking when it comes to what learning looks like and you start to unlock a whole new world of possibilities that will engage even the most hard-to-reach learners.

Through the use of unique planning tools, practical examples relevant for all lessons and insights drawn from his own experience in the classroom, Jonathan takes teachers through an inspiring journey that starts with their own creativity and leads to releasing the wonderful creative potential for learning in all children.

Focus: Teaching and learning, engagement, leadership
Primary phase

We once observed Jonathan teach a very successful lesson to his inner-city year six class. Except, on reflection, he didn't teach anything. We saw him create the conditions where children wanted to learn, were desperate to learn and got on and learned. Remarkable. It's something that he calls 'Guerrilla Learning' and it is this approach, combined with passion for the classroom and his understanding of how schools tick that is making him so much in demand.
