Fearless Teaching

Be brave, take risks and make their learning memorable – a creative compendium for subversive teachers

Inspections, observations, performance-related pay and high-stakes testing lead to predictable lessons with little risk of failure and even less risk of anything exciting happening. But if you came into the job with a certain fearless sparkle, then this course will guarantee you can look the inspector in the eye and say, 'This is how we do it round here!'.

Drawn from Tim's experience working in classrooms nationwide, this high-energy day-course will rejuvenate your teaching with topics including the four human needs and five heart wants, arsonists and firefighters, what to do with starfish and how to break the Cycle of Doom.

Focus: Teaching and learning, gifted and talented, curriculum design, engagement, behaviour. All phases

'You but better!' In a nutshell, this sums up Tim's work with young people in all sorts of schools across the UK. Sharing strategies to improve their learning, their confidence, their resilience, their communication and their relationships Tim takes young people through all that it takes to be their best – and teaches teachers to employ the same strategies for impressive results. Funny, powerful and life changing – it's why schools have him back time and time again.
